

Senior Product Manager / Product Owner (m/w/d), Munich

We are out of the box thinkers and we are seeking a developer for a permanent position in our team.

We have exciting tasks for you

- You are responsible for the further development of our matching platform
- You accompany and drive the entire agile development process from the idea to the conception, design, analysis, development, implementation, testing and acceptance to the go-live
- Specification and prioritization of the backlog in coordination with the stakeholders
- Ensuring consistently high quality
- You work closely and openly with customers, management and development
- Working on the core of our company, the matching platform

What we would like from you

- Enthusiastic about innovative topics and an affinity for technology
- A university degree or training in Business Administration, Business informatics or similar fields of expertise
- Professional experience in product management, online or in a management consultancy is an advantage
- Ideally you have already worked for several years as a Product Owner (or similar) in an agile team
- An eye for detail without losing sight of the overall concept
- Knowledge of agile concepts UI/UX, story writing and software development is an advantage
- Very good analytical and communication skills
- Quick comprehension and goal-oriented way of working
- Personal Responsibility, ability to work in a team and high level of commitment
- Fluent in German and English

This is why you will like to work with us

- An innovative environment and access to the decision makers of our IT industry as well as a large network and extraordinary IT portfolio
- Challenges and a lot of free space to develop on a personal and professional level
- Flat hierarchies
- Work satisfaction and a very good work environment
- A market and performance orientated remuneration
- Modern and flexible work conditions and a very attractive company location
- A workspace that motivates you: own laptop, iPhone, fresh fruits and coffee specialities
- Working with new technologies
- Company sports and gym membership offers
- Free Language offers

Send your application with your salary expectation and start date to hr@knooing.de